on the definition, description, presentation and labelling of spirit drinks, the use of the names of spirit drinks in the presentation and labelling of other foodstuffs, and the protection of geographical indications for spirit drinks, the use of ethyl alcohol and distillates of agricultural origin in alcoholic beverages, and repealing Regulation (EC) No 110/2008

THE EUROPEAN PARLIAMENT AND THE COUNCIL OF THE EUROPEAN UNION,

Having regard to the Treaty on the Functioning of the European Union, and in particular Articles 43(2) and 114(1) thereof,

Having regard to the proposal from the European Commission,¹

After transmission of the draft legislative act to the national parliaments,

Having regard to the opinion of the European Economic and Social Committee,²

Acting in accordance with the ordinary legislative procedure,³

Whereas:

² OJ C , p. .
³ OJ C […], […], p. […].
(1) Regulation (EC) No 110/2008 of the European Parliament and of the Council\(^4\) has proved successful in regulating the spirit drinks sector. However, in the light of recent experience and technological innovation, market developments and evolving consumer expectations, it is necessary to update the rules on the definition, description, presentation and labelling of spirit drinks and to review the ways geographical indications for spirit drinks are registered and protected.

(2) In order to align the powers conferred upon the Commission pursuant to Regulation (EC) No 110/2008 to Articles 290 and 291 of the Treaty on the Functioning of the European Union (‘the Treaty’), further amendments to that Regulation are needed.

(3) The measures applicable to spirit drinks should contribute to attaining a high level of consumer protection, removing information asymmetry, preventing deceptive practices and attaining market transparency and fair competition. They should safeguard the reputation which the Union’s spirit drinks have achieved in the Union and on the world market by continuing to take into account the traditional practices used in the production of spirit drinks as well as increased demand for consumer protection and information. Technological innovation should also be taken into account in respect of spirit drinks, where such innovation serves to improve quality, without affecting the traditional character of the spirit drinks concerned.

(3a) Spirit drinks represent a major outlet for the agriculture of the Union and the production of spirit drinks is strongly linked to the agricultural sector. Besides representing a major outlet for the agriculture of the Union, this link determines is determinant for the quality, safety and reputation of the spirit drinks produced in the Union. This strong link to the agricultural agri-food sector should therefore be emphasised by the regulatory framework.

(3b) The measures applicable to spirit drinks constitute a special case compared with the general rules laid down for the agri-food sector and should also take into account the traditional production methods in use in the different Member States.

(4) To ensure a more uniform approach in the legislation on spirit drinks, this Regulation should set out clear criteria for the definition, presentation and labelling of spirit drinks as well as for the protection of geographical indications, without prejudice to the diversity of the official languages and alphabets in the Union. It should also set out rules on the use of ethyl alcohol or distillates of agricultural origin in the production of alcoholic beverages and on the use of the legal names sales denominations of spirit drinks in the presentation and labelling of foodstuffs.

(4a) In order to meet consumer expectations and to conform to traditional practices, ethyl alcohol and distillates used for the production of spirit drinks should be exclusively of agricultural origin.

(5) In the interests of consumers, this Regulation should apply to all spirit drinks placed on the Union market, whether produced in the Member States or in third countries. In order to maintain and improve the reputation of the spirit drinks produced in the Union on the world market, this Regulation should also apply to spirit drinks produced in the Union for export.

(6) In order to meet consumer expectations and to conform to traditional practices, ethyl alcohol used for the production of spirit drinks and other alcoholic beverages should be exclusively of agricultural origin. This should also ensure an outlet for basic agricultural products.

(7) This Regulation should continue to focus on The definitions of and technical requirements for spirit drinks classified and the classification of spirit drinks into categories should continue to take by taking into account the traditional quality practices. This Regulation should also lay down specific rules for certain spirit drinks that are not included in the list of categories should also be laid down.

(7a) Rules should be laid down regarding the legal names to be used for spirit drinks that are placed on the Union market.

(8) It should be clarified that a new category may only be added if a spirit drink has a significant market share in at least one Member State. Moreover, the name chosen for the new category shall either be a widely used name or, where this is not possible, be of a descriptive nature, in particular, by referring to the raw material used for the production of the spirit drink.
(9) Regulation (EC) No 1333/2008 of the European Parliament and the Council and Regulation (EC) No 1334/2008 of the European Parliament and the Council also apply to spirit drinks. However, it is necessary to lay down additional rules concerning colours and flavourings which will only apply to spirit drinks. It is also necessary to lay down additional rules concerning the dilution and dissolution of flavourings, colours and other authorised additives which will only apply to the production of alcoholic beverages. It is only necessary therefore to lay down in this Regulation rules not already provided for in those Regulations.

(10) Given the importance and complexity of the spirit drinks sector, it is appropriate to lay down specific rules on the description, presentation and labelling of spirit drinks, in particular for the use of legal names, sales denominations, geographical indications, compound terms and allusions therein.

(11) Regulation (EU) No 1169/2011 of the European Parliament and of the Council should apply to the description, presentation and labelling of spirit drinks, save as otherwise provided for in this Regulation. However, given the importance and the complexity of the spirit drinks sector, it is appropriate to lay down specific rules on the description, presentation and labelling of spirit drinks going beyond that Regulation. Those specific rules should also prevent the misuse of the term 'spirit drink' and the legal names of spirit drinks for products which do not meet the definitions and requirements set out in this Regulation.

(12) In order to ensure the uniform use of compound terms and allusions in Member States and in order to provide consumers with adequate information, thereby protecting them from being mislead, it is necessary to lay down provisions concerning their use for the purpose of presentation of spirit drinks and other foodstuffs. These provisions are also intended to protect the reputation of the spirit drinks used in this context.

(13) In order to provide consumers with the adequate information, provisions on the description, presentation and labelling of spirit drinks which qualify as mixed or blended for mixtures of spirit drinks should be laid down.

(14) While it is important to ensure that in general the stated maturation period or age specifies only the youngest alcoholic component, to take account of traditional ageing processes in the Member States, it should be possible to provide, by means of delegated acts, for a derogation and appropriate control mechanisms, to take account of traditional ageing processes in the Member States in relation to brandies produced using the traditional dynamic ageing system known as the "criaderas y solera" system or "solera e criaderas" system.

(14a) For reasons of legal certainty and adequate information to consumers, it should be clarified that the use of the names of raw materials or adjectives as legal names of certain spirit drinks does not preclude the use of such raw materials or adjectives in the presentation and labelling of foodstuffs. For the same reasons, it should be clarified that the use of the German word -geist as the legal name of a category of spirit drink does not preclude the use of that word as a fancy name supplementing the legal name of other spirit drinks or the name of other alcoholic beverages, provided that such use does not mislead the consumer.
(14b) In order to ensure adequate information for consumers and to enhance quality production methods, it should be provided that the legal name of any spirit drink may be supplemented by the term 'dry' or 'dry', if that spirit drink has not been sweetened. However, in line with the principle that food information must not be misleading, particularly by suggesting that the food possesses special characteristics when in fact all similar foods possess such characteristics, this rule should not apply to spirit drinks that may not be sweetened, even for rounding off the taste, notably to whisky or whiskey. This rule should also not apply to gin, distilled gin and London gin, to which specific sweetening and labelling rules should continue to apply. As regards liqueurs, liqueurs characterised in particular by a tart, bitter, tangy, acerbic, sour or citrus taste, regardless of their degree of sweetening, may be labelled as 'dry' or 'dry'. Such labelling is not likely to mislead the consumer, since liqueurs are required to have a minimum sugar content. It should therefore be clarified that in the case of liqueurs, the term 'dry' or 'dry' does not indicate that the spirit drink has not been sweetened.

(14c) To take into account consumer expectations about the raw materials used for vodka especially in the traditional vodka producing Member States, provision should be made for adequate information to be provided on the raw material used where vodka is made from raw materials of agricultural origin other than cereals or potatoes or both.

(14d) In order to enforce and to check the application of the legislation relating to rules on ageing and labelling, and to combat fraud, an obligation to indicate the legal name and the maturation period of any spirit drink in electronic administrative documents should be provided for.

(15) In some cases, food business operators may be required or may want to indicate the place of provenance of spirit drinks other than geographical indications to draw consumers’ attention to the qualities of their product. Such origin indications should comply with harmonised criteria. Therefore, specific provisions on the indication of the country of origin or place of provenance in the description, presentation and labelling of spirit drinks should be laid down. Moreover, the obligation to indicate the country of origin or the place of provenance of a primary ingredient, laid down in Regulation (EU) No 1169/2011, should not apply for spirit drinks, even if the country of origin or the place of provenance of the primary ingredient of a spirit drink is not the same as the place of provenance indicated in the description, presentation or labelling of that spirit drink.
(15a) In order to protect the reputation of certain spirit drinks a provision should be laid down governing the translation, transcription and transliteration of legal names for export purposes.

(15b) In order to ensure the consistent application of this Regulation, Union reference methods for the analysis of spirit drinks and of ethyl alcohol used in the production of spirit drinks should be established.

(16) The use of lead-based capsules to cover the closing devices of containers holding spirit drinks should continue to be banned, in order to avoid any risk of contamination, in particular by accidental contact with such capsules, and of environmental pollution from waste containing lead from such capsules.

(17) Concerning the protection of geographical indications, it is important to have due regard to the Agreement on Trade-Related Aspects of Intellectual Property Rights (‘TRIPS Agreement’), and in particular Articles 22 and 23 thereof, and to the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (‘GATT Agreement’) including Article V thereof on freedom of transit, which were approved by Council Decision 94/800/EC. Within such legal framework, in order to strengthen geographical indication protection and to combat counterfeiting more effectively, such protection should also apply with regard to goods entering the customs territory of the Union without being released for free circulation, and placed under customs special procedures such as transit, storage, specific use or processing.

(18) Regulation (EU) No 1151/2012 of the European Parliament and of the Council does not apply to spirit drinks. Rules on protection of geographical indications of spirit drinks should therefore be laid down. Geographical indications identifying spirit drinks as originating in the territory of a country, or a region or locality in that territory, where a given quality, reputation or other characteristic of the spirit drink are essentially attributable to its geographical origin should be registered by the Commission.

(19) Procedures for the registration, modification and possible cancellation of Union or third country geographical indications in accordance with the TRIPS Agreement should be laid down whilst automatically recognising the status of existing protected geographical indications that are protected in of the Union. In order to make view of making procedural rules on geographical indications consistent through all the sectors concerned, such procedures for spirit drinks should be modelled on the more exhaustive and well tested procedures for agricultural products and foodstuffs laid down in Regulation (EU) No 1151/2012 while taking into account specificities of spirit drinks. In order to simplify the registration procedures and to ensure that information for food business operators and consumers is electronically available an electronic register of geographical indications should be established. Geographical indications protected under Regulation (EC) No 110/2008 should automatically be protected under this Regulation and listed in the electronic register. The Commission should complete the verification of geographical indications contained in Annex III to Regulation (EC) No 110/2008, in accordance with Article 20 of that Regulation.

(19a) For reasons of consistency with the food, wine and aromatised wine products geographical indications sectors, the name of the act providing the rules of production of the spirit drink which is registered as a geographical indication should be changed from "technical file" to "product specification". Technical files submitted as part of any application under Regulation (EC) No 110/2008 should be deemed to be product specifications.

(19b) The relation between trademarks and spirit drinks geographical indications should be reconsidered in order to clarify the criteria for refusal, invalidation and coexistence. This should not affect rights acquired by holders of geographical indications at national level or by virtue of international agreements concluded by Member States for the period before the establishment of the Union protection system by Council Regulation (EEC) No 1576/89.
Preserving a high standard of quality is essential if the spirit drinks sector's reputation and value are to be maintained. Member State authorities should be responsible for ensuring that the standard is preserved through compliance with this Regulation, and the Commission should be able to monitor and verify such compliance in order to ascertain that it is being uniformly enforced. Therefore the Commission and the Member States should be required to share relevant information with each other.

In applying a quality policy and in order to allow for a high level of quality of spirit drinks and diversity in the spirit drinks sector, Member States should be allowed to adopt rules on the production, description definition, presentation and labelling of spirit drinks produced in their territory that are stricter than those laid down in this Regulation.

In order to take into account evolving consumer demands, technological progress, developments in the relevant international standards and the need to improve the economic conditions of production and marketing, the traditional ageing processes and, in exceptional cases, the law of the importing third countries, and in order to ensure the legitimate interests of producers and food business operators as regards the protection of geographical indications, the power to adopt acts in accordance with Article 290 of the Treaty on the Functioning of the European Union (‘the Treaty’) should be delegated to the Commission in respect of: authorising new sweetening products, the amendments of or and derogations from the technical definitions and requirements of the categories of for spirit drinks and the specific rules concerning some of them referred to under Chapter I of this Regulation, derogations related to the specification of maturation period or age for brandy and the setting up of the public register of bodies in charge of supervising the ageing processes, the labelling and presentation referred to under Chapter II of this Regulation, the establishment of an electronic register of geographical indications of spirit drinks and detailed rules on the form and content of that register, referred to under Chapter III of this Regulation and the checks and exchange of information referred under Chapter IV of this Regulation, further conditions in relation to applications for the protection of a geographical indication and preliminary national procedures scrutiny by the Commission, the opposition procedure and cancellation of geographical indications, and conditions and requirements for the procedure concerning amendments to product specifications, amendments and derogations from certain definitions and rules on description, presentation and labelling.
(22a) In order to ensure the implementation of the Economic Partnership Agreement between the European Union and Japan, it was necessary to provide for a derogation from the nominal quantities set out in the Annex to Directive 2007/45/EC\(^\text{10}\) for spirit drinks in order to allow that single distilled shochu produced by pot still and bottled in Japan be placed on the Union market in traditional Japanese bottle sizes. That derogation was introduced by Regulation (EU) 2018/1670 of the European Parliament and of the Council\(^\text{11}\) and should continue to apply.

(23) In order to react rapidly to economic and technological developments regarding spirit drinks covered by this Regulation for which no category and technical specifications exist so as to protect consumers and the economic interests of producers and unify the given production and quality requirements for those spirit drinks, the power to adopt acts in accordance with Article 290 of the Treaty should be delegated to the Commission as regard the addition, subject to certain conditions, of new categories of spirit drinks to those listed respectively in Part I and II of Annex II to this Regulation and the technical specifications thereof.

(24) It is of particular importance that the Commission carry out appropriate consultations during its preparatory work, including at expert level, and that those consultations be conducted in accordance with the principles laid down in the Interinstitutional Agreement on Better Law-Making of 13 April 2016.\(^\text{12}\) In particular, to ensure equal participation in the preparation of delegated acts, the European Parliament and the Council receive all documents at the same time as Member States’ experts, and their experts systematically have access to meetings of Commission expert groups dealing with the preparation of delegated acts.

(24a) In order to ensure uniform conditions for the implementation of this Regulation, implementing powers should be conferred on the Commission regarding the publication of the single document in the Official Journal of the European Union and regarding decisions on registration of names as geographical indications if there is no notice of opposition or no admissible reasoned statement of opposition or in the case there is one the agreement has been reached.

(25) In order to ensure uniform conditions for the implementation of this Regulation, implementing powers should be conferred on the Commission regarding the rules for the use of new sweetening products, for information to be provided by Member States with regards the bodies appointed to supervise ageing processes, the indication of the country of origin or place of provenance on the label of spirit drinks, the rules on the use of the Union symbol for protected geographical indications, the detailed technical rules on the Union reference methods for the analysis of ethyl alcohol, distillates of agricultural origin and spirit drinks, granting the transitional period for the use of geographical indications and extensions of these periods, rejections of applications where the conditions for the registration are not fulfilled already before the publication for opposition, registrations or rejections of geographical indications published for opposition in case an opposition has been submitted and no agreement has been reached, approvals or rejections of Union amendments to a product specification, approvals or rejections of requests for cancellation of the registration of a geographical indication, the form of the specification and measures on the information to be provided in the product specification with regard to the link between the geographical area and the final product, procedures, form and presentation of applications, of oppositions, of amendment applications and communication and of the cancellation process with regard to geographical indications, of the checks and verifications to be carried out by the Member States as well as with regards to the necessary information to be exchanged for the application of this Regulation. Those implementing powers should be exercised in accordance with the provisions of Regulation (EU) No 182/2011 of the European Parliament and the Council.

(26) The implementing powers relating to the labelling and presentation referred to under Chapter II of this Regulation, the geographical indications referred to under Chapter III of this Regulation and the checks and exchange of information referred to under Chapter IV of this Regulation should be exercised in accordance with the provisions of Regulation (EU) No 182/2011 of the European Parliament and the Council.\(^{14}\)

(26a) Regulation (EC) No 110/2008 should be repealed.

(27) The transition from the rules provided for in Regulation (EC) No 110/2008 to those laid down in this Regulation could give rise to difficulties which are not dealt with in this Regulation. To take the necessary measures in that respect, the power to adopt acts in accordance with Article 290 of the Treaty should be delegated to the Commission.

(28) In order to protect the legitimate interests of producers or stakeholders concerned to benefit from the publicity given to single documents under the new legal framework, it should be made possible that single documents concerning geographical indications registered in accordance with Regulation (EC) No 110/2008 are published upon request of the Member States concerned.

(29) Since the rules on geographical indications enhance the protection for operators, they should be applicable two weeks after the entry into force of this Regulation. However, provision should be made for appropriate arrangements to facilitate a smooth transition from the rules provided for in Regulation (EC) No 110/2008 to the rules laid down in this Regulation. This Regulation should start to apply two years after its entry into force.

(30) As regards the rules not relating to geographical indications, provision should be made for sufficient time to facilitate a smooth transition from the rules provided for in Regulation (EC) No 110/2008 to the rules laid down in this Regulation.

(31) The marketing of existing stocks should be allowed after the dates of application of this Regulation, until those stocks are exhausted,

HAVE ADOPTED THIS REGULATION:

Article 2c

Ethyl alcohol of agricultural origin

For the purposes of this Regulation, ethyl alcohol of agricultural origin is a liquid which complies with the following requirements:

ANNEX IV

DYNAMIC OR 'CRIADERAS Y SOLERA' OR 'SOLERA E CRIADERAS' AGEING SYSTEM

The dynamic or 'criaderas y solera' or 'solera e criaderas' ageing system consists in the execution of periodical extractions of a portion of the brandy contained in each of the oak casks and containers that form an ageing scale and the corresponding replenishments with brandy extracted from the preceding ageing scale.

Definitions

'Ageing scales' mean each group of oak casks and containers with the same level of maturation, through which the brandy progresses in the course of its ageing process. Each scale is known as 'criadera', except the last one, previous to the expedition of the brandy, known as the 'solera'.

'Extraction' means partial volume of brandy drawn from each oak cask and container in an ageing scale, for its incorporation to the oak casks and containers in the next ageing scale or, in the case of the solera, for its expedition.

'Replenishment' means the volume of brandy from the oak casks and containers of a given ageing scale that is incorporated to and blended with the content of the oak casks and containers of the following scale in terms of age.

'Average age' means the period of time corresponding to the rotation of the total stock of brandy that is undergoing the ageing process, calculated as the fraction between the total volume of brandy contained in all the ageing scales and the volume of the extractions made from the last scale –the solera– in one year.
The average age of the brandy drawn from the solera shall be calculated using the following formula:
\[ \bar{t} = \frac{V_t}{V_e} \]
in which:

- \( t \) is the average age, expressed in years;
- \( V_t \) is the total volume of stocks in the ageing system, expressed in litres of pure alcohol;
- \( V_e \) is the total volume of product extracted for shipping during a year, expressed in litres of pure alcohol.

In the case of oak casks and containers of less than 1,000 litres, the number of annual extractions and replenishments shall be equal to or lower than twice the number of scales in the system, in order to guarantee that the youngest component has an age equal to or higher than 6 months.

In the case of oak casks and containers of 1,000 litres or more, the number of annual extractions and replenishments shall be equal to or lower than the number of scales in the system, in order to guarantee that the youngest component has an age equal to or higher than 1 year.
